Methodology. Registrations and FTDs = raw GA4 events (sign_up / deposit_ftd , paid source-mediums) × 1.33 (~25% tracking loss in stable months; replaces the ×1.8 factor used through May — prior months restated for comparability). CR is computed on raw events. Spend: Google Ads (USD account, includes $4,999 YouTube reserve) · Meta (BRL ÷ 5.56, +14% VAT) · TikTok / X / Match2One from platform consumption (data warehouse). Kwai did not run (credit on hold). GA4 property 512299072 · Google 5890715644 · Meta act_1584534506299876.

- Record top of funnel, weak bottom: spend on plan and +52% registrations, but World Cup traffic deposits less — raw CR fell 32.9% → 22.3%, so FTDs stayed flat (1,821) and CPA closed at $187 vs the $130.07 objective.
- Meta scaled +57% at flat CPA ($193) — the jaguar/cachorro Casino engine absorbed budget without inflation.
- Google CPA +47% under World Cup auction pressure — even Brand Exact tripled ($17 → $49), though it is still the cheapest FTD source.
- Match-day pieces buy registrations, not deposits (CPA $550+ Meta / mostly 0-conv PMax groups); evergreen pieces convert 3–4× better. Competitor exact: $3,672 → ~1 est. FTD.

Current status (early July). All performance campaigns are paused; only Brand (Google) remains active. The recommendations in this report are therefore framed as learnings — a reactivation playbook (page 11), not as in-flight optimizations.

World Cup match pieces buy registrations, not deposits. The 40+ match-day 1×1 pieces drove very cheap sign-ups (CPL $15–30) but 373 sign-ups → ~20 est. FTDs. July fix: deposit-focused CTAs (bonus + PIX on screen), match pieces only for Brasil games and knockout headliners, keep the generic evergreen piece as the always-on Sports asset.

CPM buy: the channel is judged on cost of reach, not conversions. GA4 (click/session) attributed 1 sign-up and 0 FTD in June — conversion activity here is collateral, and platform view-through figures are excluded from this report's KPIs.

- $0.93 blended CPM for 14.4M impressions — the cheapest reach in the mix (YouTube $1.68 · Meta $11.36): publisher category $0.23, AI-modelled $0.31, match-day $0.12.
- “Premium” targeting paid 4–20× more per impression for the same job: keyword FIFA $1.38, 3rd-party $1.92 and retargeting $4.82 CPM — and the RTG sign-up line took 65% of the budget while re-hitting users Meta/Google already cover.
- Conversion signal stays collateral: GA4 saw 1 sign-up; any view-through activity needs a holdout test before it earns budget. If it returns: reach layer at ≤$1 CPM, judged vs YouTube's $1.68.

- Meta is the only channel that improved while scaling ($194 → $193 with +57% spend).
- Google's June jump is auction-driven, not structural: Brand/Competition still convert at $49–127; the inflation sits in World Cup sports and casino prospecting.
- TikTok regressed to $294 as spend scaled +41% into the World Cup — concentrate 100% on the 6s Casino heroes that carry the channel.

Current status. As of early July, all performance campaigns are paused; only Brand (Google) remains active. What follows is therefore not an optimization list — it is the reactivation playbook: the learnings June paid for, ready to apply the day campaigns turn back on.

Done in June and what it produced

- Scaled Meta +57% with refreshed creatives (jaguar family, cachorro, WC pieces) → CPL halved, CPA flat.
- Google spend delivered exactly on plan (100.3%) with full World Cup coverage; launched YouTube reserve (first upper-funnel layer) and the Match2One reach/retention test.
- Taboola paused as committed; TikTok Sports wound down to focus Casino 6s; new UTM taxonomy (c01) rolled out on Meta mid-month.

Learnings — the reactivation playbook what worked, what didn't, and how to restart

- 1 · Evergreen beats match-day 3–4×. Generic always-on pieces converted at $156–221 CPA while per-match pieces ran $550+ (Meta) and mostly zero-conv (48 PMax groups, $10.3K → CPA $322). Restart with 1 evergreen piece per vertical; produce match pieces only for true headliners.
- 2 · Mega-event traffic registers but doesn't deposit (raw CR 32.9% → 22.3%). Restart with deposit-first creatives: bonus + PIX on screen, "deposit em 30s" tutorials — not more registration volume.
- 3 · Meta scales at flat CPA when creative is fresh. +57% spend, CPA $194 → $193; jaguar carried 62% of Casino spend and cachorro was the efficiency champion ($78). Have 3 mascot variants ready before scaling again — fatigue, not budget, is Meta's ceiling.
- 4 · Brand is the anchor (and the only thing running). Even 3× pricier under auction pressure it was the cheapest FTD ($49). Keep IS >90% while everything else is paused. Corollary: never fund competitor exact during mega events ($3,672 → ~1 FTD).
- 5 · Google prospecting: scale only what beat the account — PMax Slots joker_jewells ($141, Excellent) and Spaceman ($114); regional casino search (SP $282 / MG $226) consolidates into the national campaign on restart.
- 6 · TikTok is a Casino 6s channel. 92% of its FTDs came from hero-format 6s videos; sports UGC never worked. Reactivate only with the 6s playbook (+ a "PIX in 30s" variant).
- 7 · Match2One is a reach buy — judge it by CPM. $0.93 blended, with its best open audiences at $0.23–0.31 (publisher category / AI-modelled): the cheapest impressions in the account. GA4 attributed just 1 sign-up, so conversions stay collateral. On any return: reach layer at ≤$1 CPM, kill the $4.82-CPM retargeting display (65% of budget on users Meta/Google already cover), and validate any conversion claim with a holdout.
- 8 · YouTube reserve works as a presence layer ($1.68 CPM, 8% interaction at Brasil matches). Use it for big moments only, paired with measurable mid-funnel — don't expect direct conversions.
- 9 · While paused, build the stock: mascot variants, deposit-CTA pieces, 9:16 videos for PMax (most groups are still Average strength for lack of video), X/M2O measurement fixes, c01 taxonomy hygiene.

Closing. June proved the machine can buy attention at scale — record registrations, spend on plan, Meta scaling at flat CPA, and a first upper-funnel layer (YouTube + Match2One) at $0.9–1.7 CPM. What it didn't yet do is turn attention into deposits: CR fell by a third and CPA closed at $187 vs the $130.07 objective. With campaigns now paused and only Brand active, the priority is to bank these learnings — evergreen over match-day, deposit-first creatives, fresh mascots before scale, retention display, AI-modelled audiences — so reactivation starts from what June already paid to learn.
